Code Splitting & Lazy Loading

Code splitting is a powerful optimization technique in React applications that allows you to split your code into smaller chunks

Lazy loading is a technique used in React to optimize the performance of web applications by loading components, modules, or assets only when they are needed.

React